

Privacy Statement

Updated: 20 June 2018

Your privacy is important to us. We know that's the kind of thing all these sorts of notices say, but frankly we mean it. You've placed your trust in us by using the Classi services and we value that trust. That means we're committed to protecting and safeguarding any personal data you give us.

This document describes how we use and process your personal data, hopefully provided in a readable and transparent manner so you can get where we're coming from without getting bored senseless. As an added bonus, it also tells you how to contact us if you have questions about your personal data, which we're more than happy to answer. Please also read our separate Cookie Statement, which tells you how Classi makes use of cookies and other similar technologies.

If you've ever used us before, you'll know that Classi offers online class management services primarily through our mobile apps, as well as through other online platforms such as (partners') websites and social media. Why point that out, you ask? Well, here's the thing. All the information that follows applies to not one, not two, but all of these platforms. Several platforms, one privacy statement.

This one privacy statement applies to any kind of information we collect through these platforms or other means connected to these platforms (such as contacting our customer service team via email). It makes for a lot less tedious reading.

We might amend the Privacy Statement from time to time. If you care about your privacy, visit this page regularly and you'll know exactly where you stand.

Sad but necessary bit: If you disagree with this Privacy Statement, you should discontinue using our services. If you agree with our Privacy Statement, then you're all set to enjoy the Class Management services we offer.

What kind of personal information does Classi collect?

We can't help you make optimal use of our platform without information, so when you use our services there are certain pieces of information we ask for. This is pretty basic stuff – your name, preferred contact details and your payment information. In addition to this, we also collect information from your computer and phone. This can include the IP address, the browser you use, your language settings, and some system information. There are also situations in which we receive information about you from others or automatically collect other information. This is the basic overview of the information we collect, but if you'd like to know more, we go into a lot more detail below.

Why does Classi collect and use your personal data?

The main reason we ask you for personal details is a pretty good one – it's to help administer your online class attendance, ensure you get the best service possible and keep your information safe. We may also use your personal data to contact you and to inform you of our latest deals and special offers. There are other uses too – if you'd like to find out what they are, read on for a more detailed explanation.

How does Classi share your data with third parties?

There are different parties integrated into the Classi services in various ways and for various reasons. The primary purpose is to share your data with the instructor to make sure you are able to attend his/her classes. There are also other parties which can receive some of your data, which are parties we involve to provide you with the Classi services, financial institutions, advertisers or in some cases authorities. Below we'll go into more detail about how information you share with us is used and exchanged with these parties.

How does Classi process communications that you and your booked accommodation may send to Classi?

Classi can help you and the instructors exchange information and requests about classes and punch card Purchases, directing the communications through Classi. If you want to find out more about how Classi receives and handles these communications, read on below.

How does Classi make use of mobile devices?

We offer free apps through which we also collect and process personal data. This works in much the same way as our website, but they also allow you to use our locations services.

How does Classi make use of social media?

The use of social media services may be integrated with the Classi services in various ways, which will involve us collecting some of your personal data or the social media provider receiving some of your information. If you'd like to learn more about how this information is used and exchanged, read on.

What security and retention procedures does Classi put in place to safeguard your personal data?

In accordance with European data protection laws, we observe reasonable procedures to prevent unauthorized access to, and the misuse of, personal data. Our payment service provider, Adyen B.V., is fully compliant with European laws regarding financial data and payment processing. When making a payment, your data is stored on their servers for a limited time, not on ours. Please visit <https://docs.adyen.com/legal/terms-conditions> to understand how Adyen handles your personal data as part of the payment process. We may ask instructors for bank details, which are only used to make payments to the instructor.

You always have the right to review the personal information we keep about you. You can request an overview of your personal data by emailing us to the email address stated below. Please write 'Request personal information' in the subject line of your email to speed things along a bit.

Who is responsible for the processing of personal data on the Classi website and apps?

Classi B.V., located in Groningen, The Netherlands, controls the processing of personal data on its websites and mobile apps. Adyen B.V., located in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, controls the processing of financial and payment data on the Classi mobile apps.

What kind of personal information does Classi collect?

Here's a more in-depth look at the information we collect.

Personal information you give to us.

Classi collects and uses information which you provide to us. When you want to attend a class, you are (as a minimum) asked for your name and email address. We might also ask for your home address, date of birth, telephone number, gender, payment information, and superficial medical information you would like to share with the instructor.

If you need to get in touch with our customer service team, or reach out to us through other means (such as through social media, or communicating with your instructor through our mobile app) we will collect information from you there too. After a class or course, you may be asked to provide a review to help ensure future attendees get exactly what they're looking for.

There are also other instances where you'll provide us with information. For example, if you're browsing with your mobile device, you can enable Classi to see your current location or grant access to your contact details – this helps us provide you with the best possible service. When you open a user account, it allows you to save your personal settings, upload photos, review previous classes and courses, pay for digital punch cards or plan and manage future classes (all pretty handy stuff).

You may participate in referral programs or sweepstakes, and doing this will also mean providing us with personal information. In addition to that, you can provide us with feedback or ask for help with using the Classi services.

Personal information we collect automatically.

Even if you don't end up going to classes or purchasing punch cards, when you visit our websites or apps we may automatically collect certain information. This includes your IP address, the date and time you accessed our services, the hardware, software or internet browser you use and information about your computer's operating system, like application versions and your language settings. We might also collect information about clicks and which pages have been shown to you.

If you are using a mobile device, we might also collect data that identifies your mobile device, device-specific settings and characteristics, location details, app crashes and other system activity.

Personal information we receive from other sources.

It's not just the things you tell us, though – we may also receive information about you from other sources. These include business partners, such as affiliate partners, and other independent third parties, and anything we get from them may be combined with information provided by you. We also integrate third party service providers to facilitate payment between you and instructors. These service providers share payment information so we can administer and handle your purchases, making sure everything goes as smoothly as possible for you.

Another example may be that we may integrate calling services into our platforms to enable you to connect with the instructor of your classes, and when we do we receive metadata about call activities (such as where you called, who you are and the date and length of the call). We may also receive information about you to serve you more relevant advertisement. Please read under Why does Classi collect and use your personal data? for more information. When you link your Classi user account to your social media account, personal information may be shared with Classi by that social media provider, but only when it's OK with you for them to do so.

Instructors may share information about you with Classi too – this may happen if you have support questions about your pending purchase, when disputes arise about a purchase (though naturally we don't like it when that happens) or there is other communication about your classes or purchases via Classi.

Why does Classi collect and use your personal data?

We use the information collected about you for various purposes. Your personal data may be used in the following ways:

- Purchases: First and foremost, we use your personal data to complete and administer your online punch card purchases, which is one of our main contributions as a company! We may also offer you other sports-related products and services from third parties. These will be via our online services, and if you choose to utilise these we will use your information to complete and administer your order just as we would if you purchased a punch card only.

- Customer service: We provide international customer service from our local offices. Sharing your details with our (global) customer service staff allows us to respond when you need us – including helping you to find the right instructor and responding to any questions you might have about your purchases (or any other queries, for that matter).
- Account facilities: Classi users can create a user account on our apps. We use the information you give us to administer this account, allowing you to do a number of useful things. You can manage your courses, classes and purchases, take advantage of special offers, plan future attendance easily and manage your personal settings. Managing personal settings allows you to keep and share lists and to check course and instructor related information you have provided. It also allows you to see any reviews you have submitted. If you want, you can share certain information in your user account by creating a public profile that's associated with either your own first name or a screen name of your choice.
- Online groups: We may also enable users with an account to join and interact with each other through online groups (classes). Any such activity may be made visible to other account holders or instructors.
- Marketing activities: We may also use your information for marketing activities. These activities may include:
 - Using your contact information to send you news of sports-related products and services when you attend classes through our platform or set up a user account. You can unsubscribe from these marketing communications quickly, easily and at any time – just click on the "Unsubscribe" link included in each newsletter.
 - Based on the information you share
 - with us, individualised offers may be shown to you on the Classi website, in mobile apps or on third-party websites/apps (including social media sites). These may be offers that you can purchase directly on the Classi site, or third-party offers or products we think you might find interesting. Based on information we receive from third parties, we aim to ensure that Classi advertisements served to you on other websites or apps are as relevant to you as possible. For more information on how to opt out of personalised advertisement, please view our cookie statement and “What are your choices?”.

- When you participate in other promotional activities (such as sweepstakes, referral programs or competitions), relevant information will be used to administer these promotions.
- Communicating with you: There may be other times when we get in touch, including by email, by post, by phone or by texting you – which method we choose depends on the contact information you’ve previously shared with us. And we process the communications you send to us. There could be a number of reasons for this, including:
 - Responding to and handling any requests you or your instructor have made. Classi also offers users and instructors various means to exchange information, requests, and comments about services and existing punch cards directed through Classi. For more information, scroll down a bit and read the section titled “How does Classi process communications that you and your instructor may send through Classi?”.
 - If you have not finalized a purchase online, we may email you with a reminder to continue with your purchase. We believe that this additional service benefits you as it allows you to carry on with a purchase without having to search for it or fill in your payment details again.
 - When you use our services, we may send you a questionnaire or invite you to provide a review about your experience with Classi.
 - We may also send you other material related to your purchases, such as how to contact Classi if we have information that we feel might be useful to you in attending your classes or getting the best out of our services. We may also send you material related to upcoming classes or a summary of previous classes you attended through Classi.
 - Even if you do not have an upcoming class, we may need to send you other administrative messages, which may include security alerts.

- Market research: We sometimes ask our customers to take part in market research. Any additional personal details that you give us as part of the market research will be used only with your consent.
- Promotion of a safe and trustworthy service: In order to create a trustworthy environment for you, your fellow classmates, Classi's business partners and the instructors, we may use personal data for the detection and prevention of fraud and other illegal or unwanted activities. Similarly, we may use personal data for risk assessment and security purposes, including the authentication of users and purchases. For such purposes, we may have to put certain purchases on hold.
- Improving our services: We also use personal data for analytical purposes. This is part of our drive to improve our services and enhance the user experience, but can also be used for testing purposes, troubleshooting and to improve the functionality and quality of our online class management and sales services. The main goal here is to optimize and customize our online platform to your needs, making our site and mobile apps easier and more enjoyable to use.
- Reviews and other class-related information: During and after the class provided by any instructor you attend through our platform, you may be invited to submit a review. This invite may ask for information about the instructor, the location of the class and other services you may have enjoyed through Classi (such as digital payment services).
- Account holders can choose to display a review with a screen name instead of the real name (which can be chosen in the user account facility). In addition to this, your review can be displayed anonymously. By completing a review, you are agreeing that it can be displayed (as described in detail in our Terms & Conditions) on, for example, the relevant instructor's information page on our websites, on our mobile apps, on our social media accounts and social media apps, or on the website of the relevant instructor or business partner's website. This is to inform other classmates about the quality of the instructor's teaching, the location he/she has chosen or the other services you have used.
- If you indicate whether a review is helpful or not, we will aggregate this with feedback from other users in order to sort and prioritize reviews. We may use the information in your lists or in other location-related information you share with us in an anonymous form, unless you have included this information in your public profile.

This is to help other classmates like you find the right instructor and the best courses to suit them.

- Call monitoring: When you make calls to our customer service team, Classi uses an automated telephone number detection system to relate your telephone number to your existing user account – this can help save time for both you and our customer support staff. Our customer service staff may still ask for authentication, which ensures that your account details are kept confidential.
- During calls with Classi support staff, live listening may be done or calls may be recorded for quality control and training purposes. Recordings are kept for a limited amount of time and automatically deleted, unless Classi has a legitimate interest to keep such recording for a longer period (as reasonably necessary), including for fraud investigation purposes. Any call recordings will be handled in accordance with this Privacy Statement.
- Legal purposes: Finally, in certain cases, we may need to use your information to handle and resolve legal disputes, for regulatory investigations and compliance, or to enforce the terms of use of the Classi online class management and sales service as reasonably expected.

To process your information as described above, we rely on the following legal bases:

- Performance of a contract: The use of your information may be necessary to perform the contract that you have with us. For example, if you use our services to make an online purchase, we will use your information to carry out our obligation to complete and administer that purchase under the contract that we have with you.
 - Legitimate interests: We may use your information for our legitimate interests, such as to provide you with the best suitable content of the website, emails and newsletters, to improve and promote our products and services and the content on our website, and for administrative, fraud detection and legal purposes.
 - Consent: We may rely on your consent to use your personal information for certain direct marketing purposes. You may withdraw your consent at any time by contacting us at the addresses at the end of this Privacy Statement.

How does Classi share your data with third parties?

In certain circumstances, we'll share your personal data with third parties.

- The instructor whose lessons you attend: This one's pretty crucial for what we do! In order to process class information and punch card purchases, we transfer relevant purchase details to the instructor you have purchased the punch card from. This may include your name, contact details and payment details. If you have a query about your purchase, we may contact the instructor and ask them to handle your request. In cases of purchase-related disputes, we may provide the instructor with information about the purchase process as needed. This may include a copy of your purchase confirmation as proof that a purchase was actually made.
- Your local Classi office: In order to support the use of the Classi services, your details may be shared with subsidiaries of the Classi corporate family. To find out everything you need to know about the Classi corporate family, visit our website.
- Third-party service providers: We may use service providers to process your personal data on our behalf. This processing is for several purposes, including for example sending out marketing material. Third party service providers are bound by confidentiality clauses and are not allowed to use your personal data for other purposes.
- Payment providers and (other) financial institutions: Classi may be working with third parties to process payments. It has partnered with Adyen to process payments via the most common payment methods in every country Classi is active in. Please visit <https://docs.adyen.com/legal/terms-conditions> to understand how Adyen handles your personal data as part of the payment process. When a chargeback is requested for your purchase by either you or by the holder of the credit card used to make your purchase, we may need to share certain purchase details with the payment service provider and the relevant financial institution to handle the chargeback. This may also include a copy of your purchase confirmation or the IP address used to make your purchase. We may furthermore share information with relevant financial institutions, if we consider it strictly necessary for fraud detection and prevention purposes.
- Competent authorities: We disclose personal data to law enforcement insofar as it is required by law or is strictly necessary for the prevention, detection or prosecution of criminal acts and fraud. We may need to further disclose personal data to competent authorities to protect and defend our rights or properties, or the rights and properties of our business partners.

- Business partners: We work with business partners around the world. Some of these business partners distribute or advertise our services, as well as help our other business partners distribute and advertise their own sports-related services.

How does Classi process communications that you and your instructor may send through Classi?

Classi offers you and instructors various means to communicate about lessons and punch card purchases, directing the communications through Classi. You can contact Classi with questions about your purchase or about your instructors via the Classi customer support.

Classi may access communications and may use automated systems to review, scan, and analyze communications for security purposes; fraud prevention; compliance with legal and regulatory requirements; investigations of potential misconduct; product development and improvement; research; customer engagement, including to provide you with information and offers that we believe may be of interest to you; and customer or technical support. We reserve the right to block the delivery of or review communications that we, in our sole discretion, believe may contain malicious content, spam, or may pose a risk to you, instructors, Classi, or others. Note, all communications sent or received using Classi communication tools will be received and stored by Classi.

How does Classi make use of mobile devices?

We offer free apps for a variety of mobile devices, as well as versions of our regular website that have been optimized for mobile and tablet browsing. These apps and mobile websites process the personal details you give us in much the same way as our website does – and they also allow you to use location services to find classes nearby. With your consent, we may send you push notifications with information about your purchase. You may grant us access to your location data or contact details in order to provide services requested by you. When you upload a picture from your mobile device, your picture may also be tagged with your location information. Please read the instructions of your mobile device to understand how to change the settings and enable the sharing of such data or the receipt of push notifications.

Classi may make use of something known as cross-device tracking in order to optimize our services and marketing activities. This may be done with or without the use of cookies. For more information about cookies and other similar technologies, please see our Cookie Statement below. With cross-device tracking, Classi is able to track user behaviour across multiple devices. As part of cross-device tracking, Classi may combine data collected from a particular browser or mobile device with another computer or device linked to the computer or device from which the data was collected.

In order to optimize the content of the Classi newsletter, Classi combines the searches and reservations made from different computers and devices while you are logged into your user account on each of these computers and devices. If you do not want Classi to combine such data for newsletter generation or to optimize the content of our websites and/or apps, either log out of a device or computer or unsubscribe from the Classi newsletter.

Personalized advertisements shown to you on other websites or in apps, can be offered based on your activities on linked computers and devices. You should know that logging out of your user account will not actually mean that you opt out of personalized advertisements.

How does Classi make use of social media?

Here at Classi, we use social media in different ways. We may use it partly to facilitate the use of online class management services, but also to promote our business partners' sports-related products and services and to advertise, improve and facilitate our own services.

Log in with your social media account. We may offer you the opportunity to sign in to a Classi user account with your social media account, which saves you from having to remember different user names and passwords for different online services. After you've signed in once, you'll always be able to use your social media account to sign in to your Classi account. You can decouple these accounts from each other at any time too.

Integration of social media plugins. We have also integrated social media plugins into the Classi website and apps. This means that when you click on one of the buttons (such as Facebook's 'Like' button) certain information is shared with these social media providers. If you are logged in to your social media account at the same time, your social media provider may relate this information to your social media account and possibly present your actions on your social media profile to be shared with others in your network.

Other social media services and features. We may also integrate other social media services (like social media messaging) to interact with Classi or with your contacts about our services. We may also maintain social media accounts and offer apps on several social media sites. Whenever you connect with Classi through social media, your social media service provider may allow you to share information with Classi. If you choose to share, you will generally be told by your social media provider which information will be shared. For example, when you log into a Classi user account with your social media account, certain information (as authorized by you to your social media provider) may be shared with Classi. This might include your email address, age or profile pictures saved in your user account.

When you register with a Classi social media app or connect to a social media messaging service without having a Classi user account, the information you choose to share with us may include the basic information available in your social media profile (including your email address, status updates and a list of your contacts). We'll use this information to help provide you with the service you requested – for example, to forward a message you want to send to your contacts or to create a personalised user experience in the app itself or on our websites. It means we can tailor our services to suit your needs, connecting you and your friends with the best classes and instructors and analysing and enhancing our class-related services. Your social media provider will be able to tell you more about how they use and process your data whenever you connect with Classi through them.

What security procedures does Classi put in place to safeguard your personal data?

In accordance with European data protection laws, we observe reasonable procedures to prevent unauthorized access to, and the misuse of, personal data.

We use appropriate business systems and procedures to protect and safeguard the personal data you give us. We also use security procedures and technical and physical restrictions for accessing and using the personal data on our servers. Only authorized personnel are permitted to access personal data in the course of their work.

How does Classi treat personal data of children?

The services offered by Classi are not directed at children under 18 years old. The use of any of our services is only allowed with the valid consent of a parent or a guardian. If we receive information from a child under 18 years old, we reserve the right to delete it. In limited cases as part of a purchase or other class-related services, or in exceptional other circumstances (such as features addressed to families) Classi may collect and use information of children only with the consent of the parent.

How can you control the personal data you have given to Classi?

You always have the right to review the personal information we keep about you. You can request an overview of your personal data by emailing us to the email address stated below. Please write 'Request personal information' in the subject line of your email to speed things along a bit.

You can also contact us if you believe that the personal information we have for you is incorrect, if you believe that we are no longer entitled to use your personal data, or if you have any other questions about how your personal information is used or about this Privacy Statement. Please email or write to us using the contact details below. We will handle your request in accordance with the applicable Dutch data protection law. You can request us to delete your user account at any time by contacting Classi customer service.

Who is responsible for the processing of personal data on the Classi website and apps?

Classi B.V. controls the processing of personal data on its websites and mobile apps. Classi B.V. is a private limited liability company, incorporated under the laws of the Netherlands and has its offices at Kraneweg 13-3, 9718JC Groningen, the Netherlands and registered with the trade register of the Chamber of Commerce in Groningen under registration number 65251172. Cookie Statement

Cookies and other tracking technologies can be used on our websites and apps in various ways, such as making the Classi website work, to analyse traffic or for advertisement purposes. These technologies are either used by us directly, or by our business partners, including third party service providers and advertisers we work with. If you want to learn more about what a cookie is, how they are used and what your choices are, please read more below.

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small amount of data that is placed in the browser of your computer or on your mobile device. So-called “first party cookies” (not as much fun as they sound) are cookies which are served by the entity operating the domain through which the cookie is served. Classi’s own cookies are therefore “first party cookies”. In case we allow others to service cookies through the Classi websites and apps, these cookies are so-called “third party cookies”.

In addition, there is a difference between session cookies and permanent cookies. Session cookies will only exist until you close your browser. Permanent cookies have a longer lifespan and are not automatically deleted once you close your browser. We strive to serve cookies or allow the serving of cookies with a maximum lifespan of 5 years. Only in exceptional circumstances, such as for security purposes and where absolutely necessary, will a cookie have a longer lifespan than that.

Next to cookies, other tracking technologies are used which are similar to cookies. These can include web beacons (also known as pixel tags, web bugs or gifs), tracking URLs or software development kits (SDKs). A web beacon is a tiny graphic image of just one pixel that can be delivered to your computer as part of a web page request, in an app, in an advertisement or in an HTML email message. Pixels can be used to retrieve information from your device, such as your device type or operating system, IP address, and time of visit. They are also used to serve and read cookies in your browser. Tracking URLs are used to understand from which referring website the Classi websites or apps are used. SDKs are small pieces of code included in apps, which function like cookies and web beacons.

All these technologies are together referred to in this Cookie Statement as “cookies”.

How are cookies used?

Cookies are used for different purposes. They allow you to be recognized as the same user across the pages of a website, between websites or when you use an app.

Our website and apps use cookies for different purposes:

Technical cookies: We try to give our visitors an advanced, user-friendly website and apps that adapt automatically to their needs and wishes. To achieve this, we may use technical cookies to show you our website, to make them function correctly, to create your user account, to sign you in and to manage your classes and purchases. These technical cookies are absolutely necessary for our website to function properly.

Functional cookies: We may also use functional cookies to remember your preferences and to help you to use our website and apps efficiently and effectively. For example, these cookies remember your preferred currency, language and your searches. We may also use cookies to remember your registration information so that you don't have to retype your login credentials each time you visit our site (because let's face it – that's pretty irritating). Your password will, however, always be encrypted. These functional cookies are not strictly necessary for the functioning of our website, but they add functionality and enhance your Classi experience.

Analytics cookies: We use these cookies to gain insight into how our visitors use Classi. This means we can find out what works and what doesn't, optimize and improve our websites or apps, understand the effectiveness of advertisements and communications, and ensure we continue to be interesting and relevant. The data we gather can include which web pages you have viewed, which referring/exit pages you have entered and left from, which platform type you have used, which emails you have opened and acted upon, and date and time stamp information.

It also means we can use details about how you've interacted with the site, such as the number of clicks you make on a given page, your mouse movements and scrolling activity, the search words you use and the text you enter into various fields. We make use of analytics cookies as part of our online advertising campaigns to learn how users interact with our website or apps after they have been shown an online advertisement. This may include advertisements on third-party websites.

Commercial cookies: We use third-party cookies as well as our own to display personalized advertisements on our websites and on other websites. This is called "retargeting," and it is based on browsing activities, such as the classes you have been searching for.

What are your choices?

To learn more about cookies and how to manage or delete them, simply visit allaboutcookies.org and the help section of your browser. In the settings for browsers such as Internet Explorer, Safari, Firefox or Chrome, you can set which cookies to accept and which to reject. Where you find these settings depends on which browser you use. Use the "Help" function in your browser to locate the settings you need.

If you choose not to accept certain technical and/or functional cookies, you may not be able to use some functions on our website. We currently do not support "Do Not Track" browser settings. In case a common standard has been developed which defines what exactly shall be meant by "Do Not Track" browser signals, we will review this policy again.

- Analytics. In order to control the collection of data for analytical purposes through Google Analytics from certain browser types, you may want to visit the following link: Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on (only for desktop).
